

Stars Point the Way to Better, Brighter Relationships

(PRWEB) August 24, 2005 – Relationships, like cars, run well when people have a thorough knowledge of the instructions. Finally those instructions have arrived in Kimmie's "The Sun, Moon and Venus: A Simple Guide on How to Get the Most out of Your Man."

Kimmie, noted author, radio personality and columnist, offers astrologically-based advice for women who fret over the course of their relationships. Her book is a way for women who may feel marginalized to take control. No longer will women wonder about their man's commitment. Instead, they'll have the tools to get the commitment they desire.

Her book will offer practical but timeless advice on the following:

- How to make your relationship more fulfilling.
- How to get the man you love to commit to you.
- How to understand his intellectual, emotional and physical side.
- How to open the line to better communication.
- How to work through fears and into a relationship that is truly fulfilling.

Far from being more of the same tired relationship advice, Kimmie integrates wisdom from astrology and techniques from hypnotherapy. She also draws on her professional experience.

"I've done thousands of readings for women and they have encouraged me to write this book," she said.

In all, readers will get a truer picture of themselves and their spouses. Through knowledge and from letting go of past hurts, readers can get much greater fulfillment out of their current relationship.

Kimmie was born in a deeply spiritual family and is directly descended from relatives of William Blake, the English metaphysical poet. That relative, Bertha Blake, read tea leaves, and, as Kimmie's great grandmother, ensured Kimmie got an early grounding in spirituality. Kimmie's mother does readings and is a Reiki master. As a third-generation seeker, Kimmie has taken the lessons of the ages and applied them to her life and work as a spiritualist.

Her personal journey has contributed to her expertise in writing "The Sun, Moon and Venus." Trapped in a bad relationship with a high-school flame, Kimmie had to find the personal strength to get out of the bad relationship and transcend the circumstances that led her to that place. Her journey led her to Jon, to whom she's been happily married for over five years.

Toledo residents can experience first hand Kimmie's wisdom and warmth as she hosts a two hour talk radio show in Toledo, Ohio. Tune in Sunday nights on Star 105.5 FM at 7 p.m. for two hours of relationship advice. In the past she has been a morning show co host on a Kiss Fm in Toledo, Ohio and on Tower 98.3 Toledo, Ohio.

Far from prissy advice from a self-proclaimed know-it-all, Kimmie offers been-there, done-that wisdom from a life fully lived. She's vulnerable in a way to which readers can relate. "The Sun, Moon and Venus: A Simple Guide on How to Get the Most out of Your Man" is a real world guide to understanding relationships by understanding yourself and your mate better.